

Pierre-Blaise Family Tree — User Guide

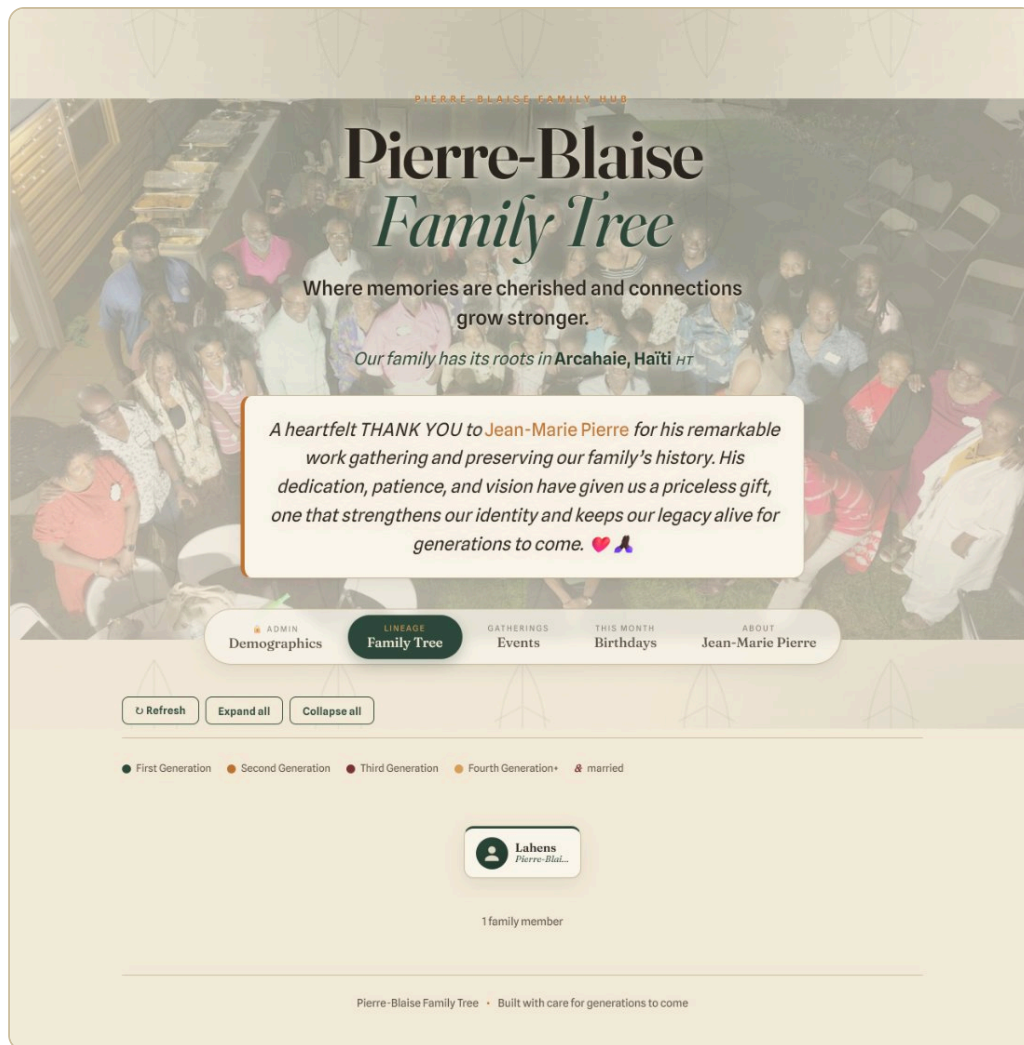

Welcome! This guide walks through everything you can do on the family website, for both regular visitors and family administrators.

Website: <https://www.pierreblaisefamily.com>

Getting started

Open <https://www.pierreblaisefamily.com> in any web browser, on a phone, tablet, or computer. The site opens on the Family Tree so you see the family right away — no sign-in needed to look around.

Across the top you'll find the navigation tabs and a thank-you note to Jean-Marie Pierre, who gathered our family's history.

The tabs are:

Tab	What it's for
Demographics	Admin area to add/edit family members ( sign-in required)
Family Tree	The family lineage, built automatically
Who is?	Look up one person — full details, immediate family, and their line to the root
How Related?	Pick two people and see exactly how they're related
Events	Gatherings, photos, and videos
Birthdays	Whose birthday is this month
Jean-Marie Pierre	A tribute to our family historian

A lock icon means that area (or action) needs the admin password.

Family Tree

The tree is built automatically from each person's father / mother / spouse links — you don't arrange it by hand. Couples appear side by side, with their children nested underneath, generation by generation (see the color legend).

- Refresh — reload the latest information.
- Expand all / Collapse all — open or close every branch at once.
- Click the +/– button on a couple to open or close just their branch.
- Search by name — jump straight to a person (see below).
- The total member count shows at the bottom.

Searching for a person

Use the Search by name box (top of the Family Tree) to find anyone quickly. As you type a first name, last name, or full name, the tree narrows to just the branch that person belongs to — showing their ancestors (so you can see where they fit in the lineage) and all of their descendants, while everything unrelated is hidden.

- The matching person is highlighted.
- Any closed branches are opened automatically so the match is always visible.
- A count under the tree tells you how many people matched, e.g. "2 matches for 'pierre'".
- Click the ✕ in the search box to clear it and return to the full tree.

Printing or saving the tree as a PDF

Use the  Print / PDF button (top of the Family Tree) to make a paper copy or a PDF of the whole tree:

1. Click  Print / PDF. Every branch is opened automatically first so nothing is left hidden, then your browser's print window appears.
2. To save a file instead of printing, set Destination (or "Printer") to Save as PDF.
3. For a wide tree, choose Landscape and let it scale to fit the page.

💡 Printing works best in a full web browser (Chrome, Edge, Safari, Firefox).

Exporting the family (GEDCOM)

The ↓ GEDCOM button downloads the whole family as a .ged file — the standard genealogy format. You can:

- Import it into genealogy programs and sites such as Ancestry, Gramps, or Family Tree Maker.
- Keep it as a portable backup of the family's information.

The file includes each person's name, sex, birth and (where recorded) death dates and places, notes, and all the parent/child and spouse links.

Who is?

The Who is? tab is a quick lookup for a single family member.

1. Type a name in the search box and pick the person from the list.
2. Their profile opens with:
 - A large photo and their full details (born, where they were born, branch, marital status, contact info, and — for those who have passed — the date of passing).
 - Life story — a longer biography, when one has been added.
 - Photo gallery — extra photos of the person, each with an optional caption. Click any photo to open it full-size; use the < > arrows, Esc, or swipe to browse.
 - Immediate family — parents, spouse/partner, and children. Each name is a link, so you can hop straight to that person's profile.
 - Line to the family root — the direct chain of ancestors all the way back to the start of the family.

Sharing a person's profile

On any profile you'll find two buttons:

-  Copy link — copies a web address that points straight to that person. Paste it into a text, email, or chat; when someone opens it, the site goes directly to that person's profile. (On the live site the link starts with `https://www.pierreblaisefamily.com/... .`)

-  Print / Save PDF — print the profile or save it as a PDF, the same way as the family tree.

How are we related?

The How Related? tab answers the classic family-reunion question.

1. Choose a first person and a second person using the two search boxes (use the ⇌ button to swap them).
2. The site tells you exactly how the first person is related to the second — for example "Marie is John's first cousin once removed."

It understands parents and children, grandparents, siblings, aunts/uncles and nieces/nephews, cousins (with the correct "Nth cousin, M times removed"), spouses/partners, and in-law (by-marriage) connections. When two people share a blood ancestor, it also shows the shared ancestor and each person's line up to them, so you can see why they're related.

ABOUT
Jean-Marie Pierre

Jean-Marie Pierre

Keeper of our family's history

With dedication, patience, and vision, Jean-Marie Pierre gathered and preserved the story of our family, giving us a priceless gift that strengthens our identity and keeps our legacy alive for generations to come.

🌱 His Upbringing

Jean Marie Pierre was born on February 3, 1948, in Arcahaie, Haiti, where he grew up with a deep respect for education and hard work. From his earliest school days through his years at Lycée Louverture, he distinguished himself through discipline and determination, eventually earning both Baccalauréat I and Baccalauréat II, the highest levels of secondary certification in the country.

His first professional steps were at Contribution, Haiti's tax collection office, where he worked for three years. But in 1974, with courage and hope, he left Haiti for the United States. Like many immigrants, he began with humble jobs, working wherever opportunity appeared. He never stopped learning, taking classes while working full time, determined to build a better future.

His persistence paid off. Jean Marie completed a four year laboratory program, trained in hospital settings, and became a laboratory technologist specializing in hematology. For 24 years, he served patients and trained new staff, earning respect for his skill, reliability, and leadership.

Education remained close to his heart. He spent many years as a teaching aide, guiding young children and supporting their growth. His gentle patience and steady presence made him a beloved figure in the classroom.

After retiring at the age of 62, Jean Marie continue to devote himself to preserving family history. He became the guardian of the family tree, gathering names, dates, stories, and memories so future generations would know where they came from.

His dedication has brought our history to life in a way that connects generations and strengthens our sense of identity. Now living in Brooklyn, NY with his wife Lucienne, Jean-Marie is a proud father and grandfather whose commitment to our family's story has given us a priceless legacy. His efforts made these family reunions not just possible, but deeply meaningful for all of us.

His life is a story of resilience, service, and love for family.

🏆 Accolades & Contributions

- Researched and assembled the Pierre-Blaise family tree across multiple generations.
- Preserved photographs, names, and memories that might otherwise have been lost.
- Brought the family together for our reunion through his tireless work.

Events

Family gatherings and milestones, newest details and photos included. Each event card shows the date, title, description, location, host, and a photo/video gallery.

Viewing photos & videos

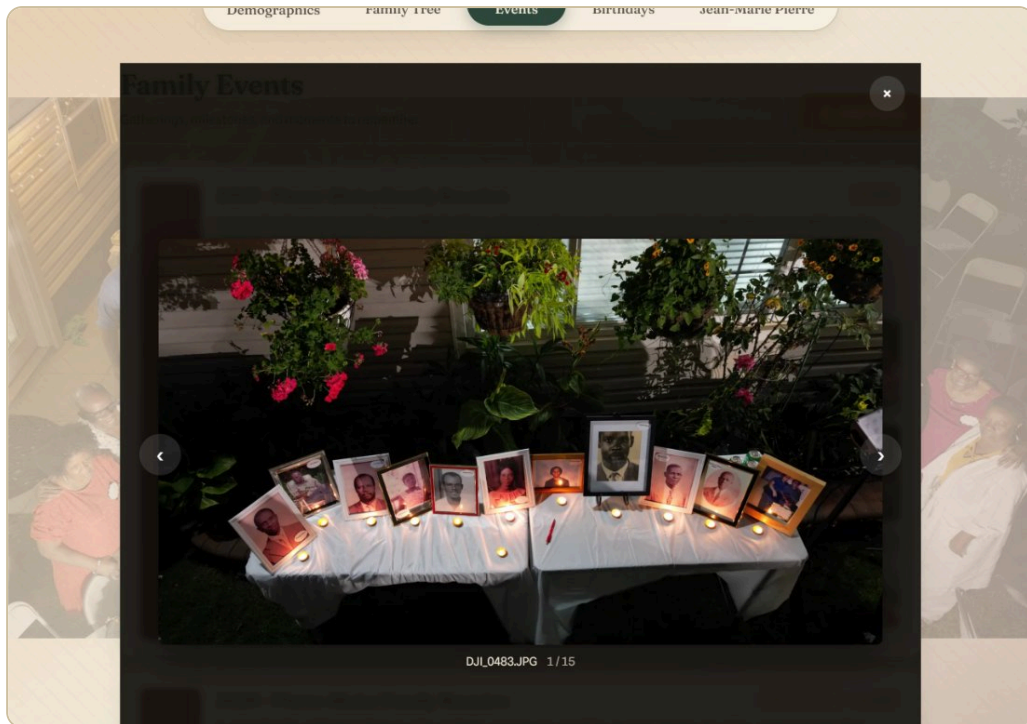

Each event's photos and videos appear as a swipeable stack — one at a time — rather than spread side by side. To browse them:

- Swipe left or right (on a phone or tablet), or use the < > arrows.

- The dots under the photo show how many there are and which you're on; tap a dot to jump straight to that one.

Click (or tap) the photo or video to open it full-size. In this larger view you can:

- Use the < > arrows (or your keyboard's left/right arrows) to move through all of that event's media.
- Press Esc, click the ×, or tap outside the image to close.
- Play videos with full controls.

Birthdays

Shows everyone whose birthday falls in the current month, so the family can celebrate together. If no one has a birthday this month, you'll see a friendly note.

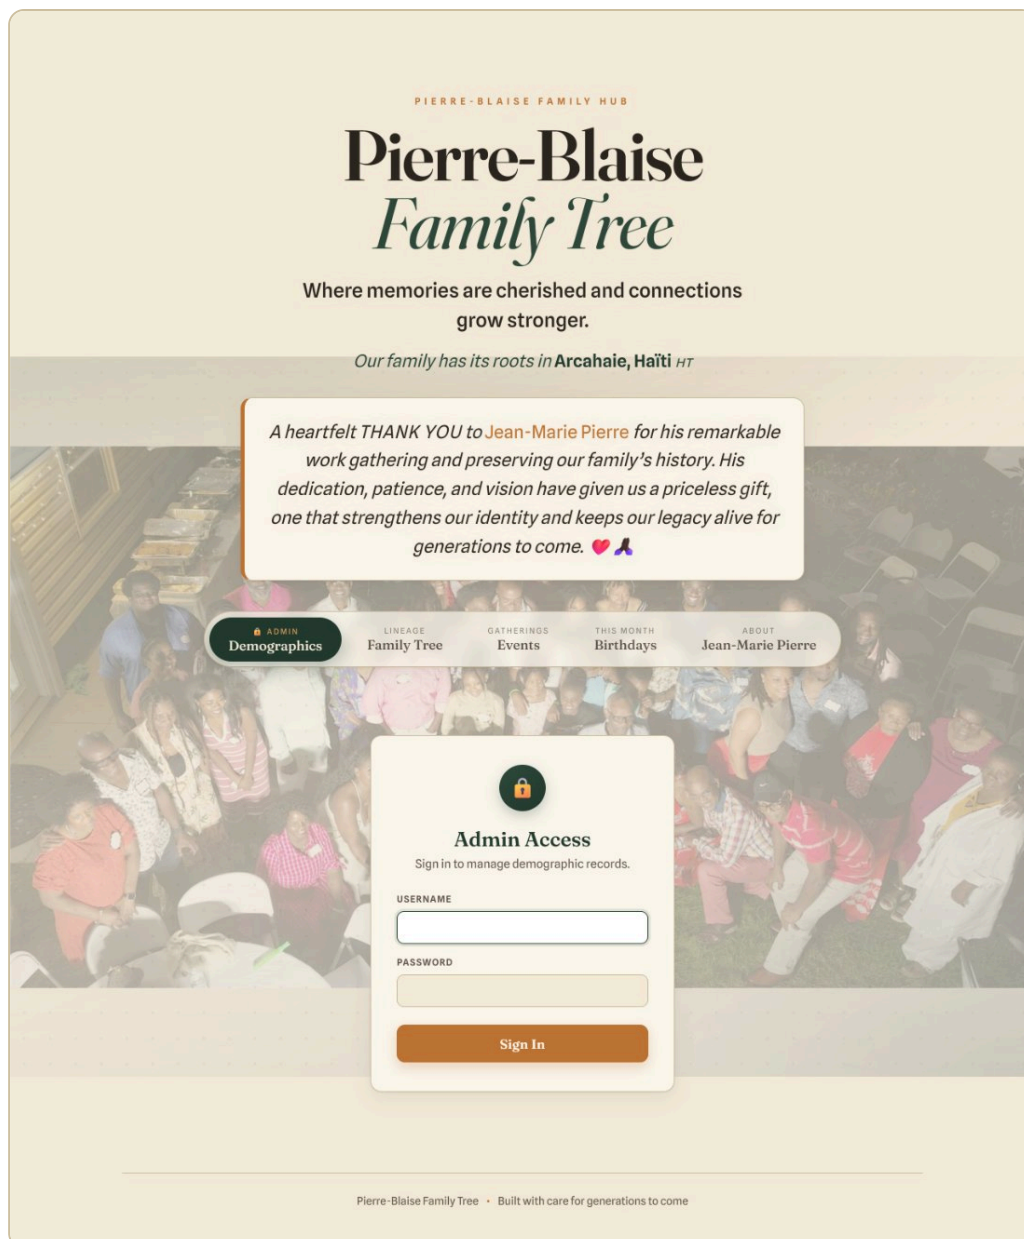

For administrators

Adding family members, editing events, uploading photos, and sending announcements all require the admin password. Ask the family administrator for the credentials.

Signing in

Open the Demographics tab. You'll see the Admin Access sign-in. Enter the admin password, then Sign In. (There's no username — just the password.)

Once signed in, you can manage the family records. (Viewing the Family Tree, Events, and Birthdays never requires signing in — only changes do.)

Managing family members

After signing in, the Demographics tab shows the Family Roster, a search box to find anyone quickly, and an Add Member button. Click Log out when you're done.

Click + Add Member to open the form. Fill in the details and upload a photo if you have one. Notable fields:

- Birthday — entered as month / day / year. The year is optional — the month and day alone are enough to save (handy when a birth year isn't known).
- Email — used for birthday and event email announcements.
- Phone (for text alerts) — used for text/SMS announcements. Enter it in international format, e.g. +1 555 123 4567 .
- Marital status of Married or Partnered requires choosing a spouse.
- Deceased — tick "This person is deceased" at the bottom of the form to record a date of death (also optional). On the tree and profiles this shows as a small †, and the Who is? page notes "Departed this life on ...".
- Life story — a free-text biography shown on the person's Who is? profile. Leave a blank line between paragraphs to keep them separated.
- Photo gallery — add as many extra photos as you like, each with an optional caption. Photos upload directly to secure storage, so large files are fine. Use the × on a

To change someone later, click their entry in the roster to edit it.

A couple of rules to know:

- A person who is listed as someone's parent can't be deleted (it would break the tree). Reassign or remove their children first.
- Setting a spouse on one partner is enough — the tree pairs them automatically.

Adding events, photos & videos

On the Events tab (while signed in):

- + Add Event — create a new event with title, date, location, host, and description.
- ✎ Edit — change or delete an existing event.
- + Add photos / videos — upload media to an event. Files upload directly to secure storage, so large photos and videos are supported. Hover/tap a thumbnail and use the × to remove a single item.

Broadcasting an announcement

For upcoming (future-dated) events, a 📣 Broadcast button lets you notify the whole family by email and/or text message.

Because this messages everyone, it asks for the password every time — even if you're already signed in.

After entering the password, the composer opens:

1. Type your message. The event's title, date, location, and host are added automatically.
2. Choose Email, Text / SMS, or both. Each line shows how many members have an address/phone, and whether that channel is live (will actually send) or simulated.
3. Click Send Broadcast. You'll see a summary of how many messages were sent.

Only members who have an email (for email) or a phone number (for SMS) saved in their record will receive the announcement. Add those in the Demographics form.

Frequently asked questions

Do I need an account to view the family tree, events, or birthdays? No. Viewing is open to everyone. Only adding or changing information needs the admin password.

Why doesn't my edit show up on another tab right away? The Family Tree is rebuilt when you open it or press Refresh. Switch to the tab and refresh to see the latest.

Someone's photo is missing. If a person has no photo yet, a friendly person emoji is shown in its place — chosen to match their sex (and using a skin tone that reflects our family). Upload a photo any time in the Demographics form to replace it.

Are the original full-size photos kept? Yes. Galleries load smaller, fast versions for speed; the full-resolution files are stored safely and shown when you open a photo full-size.

A family member didn't get the announcement. Check that they have an email (for email) and a phone number in international +1... format (for SMS) saved in their record, and that the channel showed as live when you sent it.
